

The invention relates to a method and a system which provides a routine for converting the formats of an IP address at a central location in the system. In this way, the conversion of formats is introduced as a standard for all IP-based applications programs. The system component is formed by a specially adapted operating system, an extended compiler or by a specific hardware microprocessor.